

... SHADES OF THINGS TO COME! The perennial leader of the exam parade, Current History, again busy the minds of four or five hundred G.W. students. The picture was snapped at the beginning of the hour-long test which is given every semester for students in the basement of Government. Current History was offered at the University in 1898 to explore the causes of the Spanish-American war. It has been given ever since. The class is given in Lisner auditorium by Dean Elmer Louis Kayser on Fridays at 12 noon.

Fraternalities Reject Intramural Football; Ask Injury Insurance

• THE INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL will not participate in intramural football next fall unless provisions are made to cover player injuries.

The decision came at Tuesday's IFC meeting and added a definite statement of purpose to the controversy over player injuries which has existed since fall.

The controversy came into the open at that time when a rash of injuries was sustained by several fraternity teams.

At the present time, no insurance program or other provision to cover medical expenses of injured players is in effect.

Until such a time as this demand is met by the Intramural department at the University, the IFC will not participate in intramural football.

Vincent DeAngelis, director of the intramural department at the University commented on the Council's decision only by saying, "It is their privilege to do anything they want to do."

At the outset of the controversy in October, when the IFC first proposed the move, Professor DeAngelis was quoted in the HATCHET as saying, "The fraternities will cut their own throats by dropping from intramural sports, since the program brings more esprit de corps in the groups."

In the past he said, there was an insurance program in effect to take care of injury possibilities. But because there were no injuries of serious nature, the intramural organizations refuse to play, thus cancelling the program.

Professor DeAngelis has made attempts, during the present conflict, to organize some new system. But according to him, the Council has made no attempt to iron the problem out. They have contented themselves with leaving it up to the department.

University policy, however, stated earlier this year by Max Farrington, assistant to the President, is that, "The University is not responsible for any injury sustained by any student."

Solutions
Among the attempts made by Professor DeAngelis to rectify the current problem is a suggestion for a mutual fund whereby all participating groups could contribute, and to contact various insurance companies to find a program which would not be too costly to the students.

The mutual fund was suggested at the Intramural Athletic Council with delegates from all participating groups. But when the representatives went back to their organizations, they did not move to work out a program in conjunction with the University.

Despite this move by the IFC, Mr. DeAngelis stated that the football program will take place again next year, even if only six teams are available. There is a possibility, he feels, that even though the fraternities will not participate actively themselves, some members of those organizations will support independent teams.

Vetoes Suspension
In another action the IFC voted against suspension of the Pi Kappa Alpha and Phi Alpha fraternities.

The motion of December 16 which had been tabled at that time was called to a vote, and was turned down. According to an IFC spokesman, the reason for the vote was that the fraternities in question had already made amends for the points covered by the motion.

The motion recommended suspension of the two fraternities from the IFC for continuous absences from Interfraternity Council meetings and for failure to meet their obligations to the Council and to the fraternity system.

Citizens Favor School Growth

• THE PALISADES CITIZEN'S association refused last Wednesday to join other citizen's associations in opposing the expansion of the University.

This puts the first kink in a move by West End Citizen's association to organize the citizen groups of northwest Washington against the proposed University expansion program.

The Palisades Citizen's association, according to Mr. William G. Smith, its chairman and chairman of the D. C. Planning committee, was organized to "promote the interests of Palisades Citizens." We now have a membership of "over 2000 paying members," he said.

Denounces Arguments
At its meeting last Wednesday the group denounced arguments that University expansion would create traffic congestion and remove taxable property from the rolls. Instead, the association voted to back the view that expansion of the University would add prestige and well-being to the community.

In a statement to the HATCHET, however, Mr. Smith said that their refusal to join expansion opposition "simply means we will not take a stand because George Washington is out of our jurisdiction. I have strong personal views," he added, "but it would be a betrayal to the association for me to express them."

The Palisades refusal was the latest development in a West End Citizens association fight to halt University redevelopment plans.

Expansion Plans
Expansion plans call for a 19-block campus area that includes closing of 21 and H streets between Pennsylvania, 19th, 24th, and 23rd streets.

University officials presented this plan to the National Capitol Planning commission and the District Commissioners, asking them to approve it "in principle."

The Planning commission voted unanimously December 4 to grant such approval.

Final approval is now pending an investigation by the Commissioners to determine how University development along the proposed lines will affect their operation.

Marvin Gives Service Pins

• PRESIDENT CLOYD H. MARVIN, presented service certificates and awards to members of the University's custodial staff December 19.

Bernard James, the head mailman, was presented a certificate for 35 years of service and Sandy Norris, a gardener, received recognition for 30 years.

Dr. Marvin, Dean Colclough, Mr. Herzog, and many of the deans and professors were on hand for the presentation of the awards.

Pins And Certificates
Members of the custodial staff are recognized for their service with the presentation of special pins plus certificates for employees who have worked from 5 to 25 years. After an employee has gone beyond the 25 year limit, he no longer gets a pin but he is still given a certificate commemorating his service.

The pins vary in design depending upon the number of years accumulated. Each certificate is engraved in Old English.

Other recipients of awards and certificates were: William Akers, O. D. Sligh, John Terrell, and Sylvester Coleman who have served five years; Wade Byrd and Chester Lewis for ten years; Clarence Hunter, Ella Stewart, John Earl Thompson, and Charles Wheeler who have served 15 years; and Nellie F. Jones and James Weston for 25 years.

'Who's Who' Gets New Lease on Life

by Dick Gillespie

• A STUDENT COUNCIL recommendation thwarted a move by the director of men's activities to abolish Who's Who yesterday.

In the meeting of the Student Life Committee, Don C. Faith, director of men's activities, said he had decided not to move to abolish Who's Who from the University. He said that his decision was based on the recommendation of the Student Council not to abolish Who's Who.

"The Student Council has a perfect right," Dr. Faith continued, "to investigate the method of selection and to make recommendations with regard to possible changes. The Student Council must understand, however, that Student Life is under no obligation to accept their recommendations."

In a statement to the HATCHET after the meeting, Dr. Faith said he personally felt that the University would be better off if Who's Who were abolished. "It is a cause of dissension among and between faculty and students, and it causes much heartbreak," he said.

Also in statements to the HATCHET, two other members of the Student Life Committee voiced their personal opinions.

Letty Katz, president of the Panhellenic Council, stated she felt that Who's Who should not be abolished. "Occasionally," she said, "there is some evidence of partiality by an individual member of the Student Life Committee, but on the whole, I think the selection is competent."

Ed Crump, president of Omicron Delta Kappa, men's scholastic and scholarship honorary, said, "Who's Who is a good thing, because it serves as useful recognition for those who make outstanding contributions to student activities. It provides a great incentive to the entering freshmen to participate in activities."

"Perhaps there is some injustice," he continued, "but certainly no more than in the selection of members of other honoraries. If there is injustice, the method of selection should be changed, but don't abolish it."

Radio Station WGW Pursues Broadcasts

• STUDENT RADIO STATION WGW announced last week their program schedule for the spring semester.

Roy Dubrow, public relations director for WGW, said plans call for lengthening Student Union programs, auditions for prospective announcers, and tours of station WMAL, the ABC affiliate downtown.

Student Union programs will continue next semester. "There will be a greater variety of programs," Mr. Dubrow said, "and we shall be on the air approximately four hours each day. There will be a variety of music programs and news every hour. Also, a 10-minute sports show every Tuesday and Thursday nights."

Auditions

During the semester break chief announcer, Wann Gays, will conduct auditions for announcers. Mr. Dubrow stressed that positions were still "wide open." Notices will be posted in the basement of Lisner as to the time and dates of the auditions.

Members of WGW will tour station WMAL to get ideas and assistance from the personnel as to programming and setting up of our own campus radio station. Next semester, these personnel will speak at WGW meetings on various topics of interest to the group. Mr. Dubrow said that over 200 man-hours of work had been put in the setting up of control rooms in Lisner. "We are set up exactly like the ABC affiliate downtown," he said. Many records have been donated and an office has been set up. The station hopes to buy a teletype machine in the near future. This would facilitate broadcasting of both local and national news.

The station, according to Mr. Dubrow, has received support from as far away as Minnesota. Many alumni and students have called WGW personnel and expressed their opinion that the station was a "great idea" and that it could be very beneficial to the University, he continued.

The next WGW meeting is scheduled for February 4, at 8:30 p.m. in Lisner A. All interested students are urged to attend.

Alumni Prexy Gives Citation

• PEPITA LASALLE AND Ed Creel, the 1958 Homecoming co-chairmen were presented a commendatory citation December 16.

Otto W. Schoenfelder, General Alumni association president, as spokesman of the Association's governing board, presented the award at a reception held for the presidents of all University student organizations. The reception was held at the Alumni center.

The award was presented to the two chairmen "in appreciation for the cooperative and helpful assistance ably provided to the Homecoming committee of this association in helping to present a pleasant and successful welcome to all Alumni who revisited their Alma Mater on Homecoming day."

Student Union Cafe Requires Student Help

• THE STUDENT UNION Board announced last Thursday that Mr. Stout, Union cafeteria manager for Cleaves, is interested in hiring University students to work in the Union.

Mr. Stout is looking for two students to work for about two hours at lunch and one additional student to work about two hours at dinner. The students will work in the lunch line or at the check-out counter. All persons interested in applying for such positions have been requested to contact Mr. Stout before registration.

The Union Board further announced that Mr. Einbinder, University business manager, has disclosed that plans for changes in the food services at the Union are under "consideration." Under the terms of the plans being considered, a complete snack bar would be set up on the second floor and another snack bar would be set up on the third floor.

"These plans are still in the formative stage," Mr. Einbinder told the Board. However, the new facilities might be ready by next fall the business manager added.

University Increases Present Curriculum

• SEVERAL SCHOOLS AND academic departments of the University will offer new courses for the Spring semester.

The department of business and public administration is offering two new courses. One entitled "Commercial Air Transportation," will be designed to consider the development, economic characteristics, rates, regulations, types of carriers, operations and regulatory policy of commercial air transportation operations. In addition to the instruction regularly scheduled, speakers from both the air transport industry and regulatory agencies will lecture to the class.

The second new course in that department will be "Data Processing." An opportunity will be offered through this course to study electronic equipment as it would be used in business or government agencies.

Although the actual mechanics of running the machine will not be covered, students will consider selection, and adapt data processing equipment.

Chemistry

The chemistry department will offer for the first time "Descriptive Inorganic Chemistry." The course, designed for the intermediate level, emphasizes the descriptive chemistry of the elements. The new course will fill the need for a more focused study of inorganic chemistry at the undergraduate level, say its innovators.

"Education Measurement" will be a first time addition to the School of Education's curriculum. The course will be focused for elementary and secondary teachers and for guidance counselors.

Included in the new course will be the study of basic measurement techniques; construction, selection, administration and interpretation of objective and essay-type examinations; statistical analysis of test results, and laboratory experiences in the use of test instruments.

Addition of the course comes as a response to requests from the educational field to take care of certain certification requirements in some states.

Electronics

The electrical engineering department will add two new courses. The "Engineering Electronics" course will include introductory treatment of physical concepts of electron-tube and semi-conductor devices, their electrical characteristics and their use in electronic circuit applications as well as linear and non-linear methods of analysis.

The course has been developed to give students an introduction to the concepts and principles of electronics.

"Measurements and Electronics Laboratory" is the other course offered by this department. Students will be offered an opportunity to engage in laboratory study connected with a course in theory of electrical measurements which has been offered previously by the department.

The engineering administration will offer "Problems in Operations

Research" a course which has been brought up to date to meet engineer's and scientist's particular needs while engaged in administration.

The course will offer illustrations of the applications of operations research by study of case histories and examples of the formulation and preliminary order-of-magnitude case.

Journalism Seminar

In an effort to have students in journalism acquire a greater concentration of study in some one field other than journalism, the major has been changed. As a part of this new program, a seminar for journalism majors has been added for the last semester of the senior year.

During this semester, students will do research in areas relating to their secondary or minor fields of study. The major aim of the course is directed toward giving the students practice in research.

The department of psychology is offering "Comparative Psychology" for the first time as an entirely lecture-type course. It will deal with animal psychology and cover psychological processes in subhuman organisms, evolution of behavior and the place of animal experimentation and research in psychology.

A "Juvenile Delinquency" course will be offered by the sociology department. Students will examine the factors which contribute in producing delinquency, juvenile detention, the juvenile court training schools and treatment of offenders.

The speech department will offer "Hearing Rehabilitation," a course designed for the graduate level. Included in the course will be theory and practice in three aspects of hearing rehabilitation: speech, reading, auditory training, and speech conservation.

Nursing Care

• THE UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL opened a new and unique Surgical Intensive Care unit among Washington area private hospitals yesterday. The new unit will be staffed with highly-skilled nursing care which may be made available to patients who cannot afford private nurses. It will also make nurses available when private nurses cannot be attained and it will offer nurse's attention to the patient who needs more than normal ward care but who does not need individual nursing. The specifically trained personnel for post-operative surgical cases are equipped with oxygen, suction, tracheostomy sets, as well as other essential equipment in caring for seriously ill patients.

Russian Christmas Fete Highlights '58 Activities

• THE RUSSIAN LANGUAGE Club held its second annual Christmas party on Thursday in Lisner lounge.

Over 200 students, alumni, and guests attended the party, which highlights the club's school-year events. The large turnout was treated to an elaborate program recorded by the Voice of America. The club's president, Joseph Grossman, acted as emcee for the evening.

The program opened with a series of short talks on Christmas customs and activities in various Slavic countries. Anna de Knochin spoke on Christmas in Russia, and Vera Dowhan told of the Ukrainian celebration. Rose Popovitch described the Christmas Day activities of the average Serbian family.

Folk Songs

Following the talks, the Russian Club Choir, dressed in Slavic costumes, sang three Russian folk songs.

Professor Helen Bates-Yakobson, sponsor of the club, then called on students from the University's Russian classes to recite poems by various Russian writers. Following the recitations, refreshments, in the form of traditional Russian dishes, were served.

The second half of the program began with a series of Slavic dances performed by the District Folk Dance group. Riddles and Christmas games were conducted by various students and a medley of Russian songs was performed on the balalaika by "Grisha" and Ann Barkley. H. Blus played several folk songs on the accordion, and the choir led the audience in singing. The program ended with Slavic dances by the folk dance group with audience participation.

V.O.A. Records

The entire program, plus interviews with students, was recorded by the Voice of America for broadcast into Russia. In addition, reporters from America, a magazine about the United States printed in Russia, covered the event. The story on the party will be carried in the next issue of the magazine, which is the counterpart of the U.S.S.R. printed in this country.

According to Professor Yakobson, executive officer of the Department of Slavic Languages, the broadcast of the program into Russia "will help to show the Russian people that we are a friendly nation and that we want peace." Professor Yakobson said that "Few Americans are convinced of Communist claims that religion in the Soviet Union is dead. We want to show the people behind the iron curtain that we are interested in their religious customs and beliefs. Perhaps the broadcast of the Christmas party will help us convince the Russian people that we are concerned with their hopes and needs. In a world hungering for friendship and understanding, we want to do our part to promote peace."

Professor Yakobson expressed her opinion on the need for a better knowledge of the Russian language. Language is one of the barriers which places a wedge between Russia and the United States. A knowledge of Russian enables us to better understand Soviet customs and thinking.

Language Instruction

Professor Yakobson has done much to promote educational opportunities on the Slavic languages. She was instrumental in starting Slavic language instruction in area high schools and she established a course in scientific Russian at the University. A year ago she helped organize the Russian club and now serves as its advisor.

The club consists of 74 members, both students and alumni. Officers are Joseph Grossman, president; Miriam Sommers, vice president; Neil Reed, secretary, and David Aaronson, treasurer.

In speaking of the organization, Mr. Grossman emphasized, "The club is a serious, cultural group. While members enjoy the activities of the club, they supplement class learning. Only through actually speaking Russian and through understanding the traditions and customs of the Slavic people can students make the Russian language come alive. The club provides the opportunity for students to experience the vitality of a living language."

Club Events

The club sponsors numerous events throughout the year in addition to its Christmas and Easter parties. Guest speakers give talks on a variety of subjects dealing with the Slavic people and language. Last month Dr. Tucker, Interpreter for Adlai Stevenson during his recent trip to the Soviet Union, spoke on the "Present Intellectual Climate in Russia."

In describing the club, Professor Yakobson said that it "differs from most of the other organizations on campus in that it invites the community at large to its functions and tries to help the government by cooperating with such organizations as the 'Voice of America.'"

Law Dance

• HOTEL MANGER ANNAPO- LIS will be transformed into "Club Tegfao" January 31, from 9 to 12, to a dance given by the Law school to celebrate the conclusion of final exams. As the name implies, typical night club atmosphere will prevail with dim lighting, small tables surrounding a dance floor and entertainment. There will also be a door prize. Dancing is to music provided by John Rodis and his band. Mr. Rodis plays at the Sheraton-Park hotel and on January 27 will play before President Eisenhower in a command performance at the White House. The cost is $3.95 if tickets are purchased in advance, or $4.50 if bought at the door. Although it is BYOL, set-ups are included in the price of the tickets. Tickets may be purchased during registration in the Law school or from the following people: Everett Germain, Dale Carlisle, Donald Olexa, Nancy Provost, Thomas Smegal, Louis Oberhauser, Herbert Morrison, P. Gordon Stafford, Donald Kohl, N. Sam Clifton, Gerald Richards and Joe Phillips.

Pledge Council Fails, Blames Boys' Apathy

• TWO OF THE FOURTEEN members of the Interfraternity Pledge Council attended the regular, scheduled meeting last Monday, January 5.

Andy Haas of TKE and Stewart Johnson of SAE, president and vice-president, respectively, were those present. They expressed the opinion that this year's Pledge Council has drawn its last breath.

"After an abortive start," said a spokesman for the group, "We could hardly expect any other outcome than this. We had hoped that if enough progress were made in the first few meetings, our momentum would have carried us through so that we could become a permanent part of University activities. Our real trouble was that old 'bugaboo,' apathy. Some of the actives killed off the spirit in the pledges by ridiculing the Council before it got off the ground. A few of them, however, devoted some time and effort to help us along."

Another member of the group said, "A lot of us thought SAE's delegation was a little too numerous and too interested. Some people even called it IFPSAE."

University Applies For Federal Loan

• THE UNIVERSITY HAS applied for $70,000 in Federal student loan funds under the National Defense Education Act of 1958.

At the present time only $6 million of $47.5 million appropriated by Congress, under the Act, has been authorized in the nation's schools.

In applying for the total of $70,000 under this program, the University set forth a schedule and a budget for handling the loans if they are approved. $12,500 would be set forth for the Spring semester of 1959, $7,500 for the 1959 Summer session, and $50,000 for the 1959-60 academic year.

Early Requests

Ever before the University has been approved to handle the loans, 25 or 26 requests for these loans have already been made by University students, a spokesman for the University treasurer's office related on Friday.

Thus far an application program for students desiring the loans has not been formulated.

Four other Washington-area universities have also applied for a joint total of $700,000 in loans.

Maryland

The University of Maryland is requesting $323,950 for the 1959-60 academic year. The loans will incorporate three branches of the university: College Park, Baltimore and Maryland State College at Princess Anne, Maryland.

Georgetown university has applied for $182,000 to cover the 1958-59 spring semester and summer session, and also the 1959-60 fall semester.

Government Terms

Government terms for the program call for the government to contribute all but one-ninth of the total loans made. Preference under these government terms is given to science, language, and teaching students.

Individual loans up to $1,000 per year for a total of five years may be made. Payment of three percent interest on the loans begins one year after the student leaves the University. The principal of the loan may be repaid over a period of 10 years.

Parents, Deans Plan Program

• DR. MARVIN TOPPING, assistant director of the University planning commission has invited a number of parents to a meeting in Bacon hall on Thursday, January 15.

These parents, representing each school in the University, will serve as a sounding board to explore and discuss the possibilities of a University-wide Parents' Day. They were selected from lists prepared by the deans. At present, the invitations were limited to parents of local students. However, if the program is inaugurated, parents of students throughout the country will be invited to take part in any future committee that might be formed.

Also attending this meeting will be the deans of the Schools and other University officials. They will explain to the parents just what such a program is and get the parents' reactions to it and their suggestions as to how it could be implemented.

Plans Begin

If the parents agree that a Parents' Day program would be worthwhile, plans will begin immediately for such an event.

This idea is not a new one as many other colleges and universities have found them helpful. In fact, earlier during this school year, the School of Engineering sponsored just such a pilot parents event which was enthusiastically received by students, parents and faculty.

Emanon Elects New Co-chairmen Tues.

• GAYLE COOK AND Dick Wills were elected as co-chairmen of Emanon at its regular monthly meeting last Thursday. Emanon, the organization composed of social chairmen from all the fraternities and sororities on campus, was founded two years ago under the direction of Miss Virginia Kirkbride, director of Women's Activities and Dr. Don C. Faith, director of Men's Activities.

The purposes of Emanon are threefold: to bring together social chairmen for purposes of discussion of mutual activities; to coordinate and seek to improve fraternity-sorority functions and relations, and to distribute information of particular interest to members concerning facilities available for social events.

Improvements

To elaborate on these purposes, Miss Cook explained that she hoped the improvement of social events such as exchanges, and coffee hours might come about through comparing notes on various successful events held by member groups.

"Emanon," Miss Cook continued, "hopes to foster more and better acquaintances among the Greeks to help achieve social sophistication and maintain further co-operation and understanding in the social activities of all fraternal organizations."

Emanon publishes annually a booklet containing useful information about campus facilities, public facilities for dances and parties, available musical organizations, and publicity ideas.

Other Projects

At present, Emanon is compiling a list of metropolitan area restaurants with information pertaining to location, dancing facilities and prices. A joint sorority-fraternity function is planned for the near future.

The next meeting will be held on Thursday, February 3, at 7:30 p.m. at the Alpha Delta Pi sorority rooms.

Deadline

The entrance deadline is February 10; names of the songs must also be in by this date. As no two fraternities may sing the same song, the first fraternity to enter will receive the right to sing a particular song, Mr. Blocker added.

Drawing for order of position on the program will be at the IFC's February meeting.

Opera Makes Lisner Debut

• "THE RAKE'S PROGRESS," an opera by Igor Stravinsky, will have its Washington premiere Thursday, February 12, at 8:30 p.m. in Lisner auditorium.

It will be repeated Friday, February 13 at 8:30 p.m. and Sunday, February 15, at 5:30 p.m. by the Opera Society of Washington.

With a text by W. H. Auden and Chester Kallman, the opera was first performed in Venice in 1951. The plot follows the adventures of Tom Rakewell, who gives up a simple life in the country with his sweetheart, Ann Truelove, to seek his fortune in 18th-century London. Under the influence of the satanic Nick Shadow, he leads a riotous existence, culminating finally in death in a madhouse.

Opera Cast

Tenor John McCollum will star as Tom Rakewell. Mr. McCollum was heard in last season's Opera Society productions of "Ariadne auf Naxos" and "Così fan tutte" and has sung with the NBC-TV Opera, Central City Opera and New England Opera Theatre. Appearing opposite him as Ann Truelove is Marguerite Willauer, who was selected for this part in the Boston premiere by Stravinsky himself.

Two members of the original Venice cast—Nell Tangeman and Hugues Cuenod—will recreate their roles as Mother Goose and Selim, the Auctioneer. Also in the cast are Paul Ukena as Nick Shadow and Sophia Steffan as Baba the Turk.

John Howell of the Metropolitan Opera and the New York City Center will direct the production. Sets and costumes will be designed by Robert Fletcher, New York designer, and James Waring of Catholic university will be technical director. Paul Callaway will conduct the National Symphony Orchestra and the Chorus of the Opera society.

Press Awards 5 Scholarships

• THE INTER AMERICAN Press association today announced that at least five journalism scholarships of $2,500 each will be awarded at its midyear Board of Directors meeting next March in San Salvador.

Robert U. Brown, president of the Inter American Press association Scholarship Fund, Inc. and publisher of Editor & Publisher magazine, said applications for the March awards will be accepted up to February 1.

An additional number of scholarships will be awarded next October at the IAPA's annual meeting in San Francisco. A total of eleven scholarships of $2,500 were awarded last year.

Year's Study

Scholarships go to journalists or journalism students in the Western Hemisphere. United States winners spend a year in a Latin American university and Latin Americans study for a year in the United States or Canada. The 23 scholarships granted since the scholarship fund was started a little over three years ago have been divided between Latin Americans and North Americans.

"We feel," Mr. Brown said, "that this increasing two-way flow of journalists and journalism students is a distinct contribution to better understanding and friendship between the peoples of the Americas. There can be no better way than working for this goal through the potential editors

Editorial

• ONE OF THE main subjects of controversy during the past few weeks has been the selection of Who's Who members on this campus. It is generally felt that a number of deserving students do not receive this recognition.

Under the present system the method of selecting those students to stand among the ranks of Who's Who members, is as follows: A student may petition himself, or an organization may petition for a student they deem worthy of the honor. At the close of the petitioning date, all petitions are turned over to the Student Life Committee. This Committee carefully goes over each petition and groups them as to most deserving, those who are deserving, but not as highly, and so on. In this way the petitions are narrowed down to the maximum quota. The next step is a meeting among the members of the Student Life Committee. At this meeting, the petitions are again gone over according to classes and a final decision is reached. As the final step, a recommendation based on this decision is sent to the national chapter of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

About 650 colleges and universities participate in Who's Who, but the majority are small institutions such as Dunbarton, Eureka and Kings College. Among those schools that are not members are Brown, Cornell, Columbia University, Dartmouth, Harvard, Princeton and Yale. Such state universities as Illinois, Michigan, North Carolina and Pennsylvania do not participate. George Washington is not a small school and need not participate in Who's Who for the purpose of achieving recognition.

Who's Who on a national basis is an organization of merit designed to recognize the efforts of those seniors who have made a genuinely large contribution to their University's activity program. And we feel that those deserving of the honor should receive it.

There is no logical reason to fill the maximum quota if there are not enough deserving seniors. The quota allotted to the University is 36. Last year 29 students were selected. This year 31 were selected. We do not mean to say that these students did not deserve to be selected but we do question the method of selection.

If the Student Life Committee considers not only the importance of positions held, but also the quality of work done by the petitioners in selecting members for Who's Who, then we see no reason to change the present method of selection. If not, then we would advocate a change in this direction.

As it stands, we would suggest a change in the method of Who's Who selections. Presently, the faculty members of the Student Life committee determine which students shall be selected. The student members on the committee recommend, but have no final voice.

We feel that the entire Student Life committee, faculty and student members, should combine to make the final selection.

We would also suggest that a point system be instituted. Under this system points would be given for positions obtained and quality of work accomplished. It is our opinion that the quality of the job should go hand in hand with the position attained.

This system may eliminate much of the controversy connected with the present system of selection. We realize that this point system will not solve all the problems since the human element appears and judgment must be rendered.

Inquiring Reporter

Question: Do you think Who's Who should be abolished?

DICK GILLESPIE: "I was very shocked when I heard of a move to abolish Who's Who from our campus. I was even more shocked when I heard the main reasons for this move; that Who's Who causes disunion among students and that its selection is by a partial and prejudiced group. Certainly there will be hard feelings among a few die-hards who are not admitted to the selected list. However, can these people really feel that Student Life is partial and prejudiced in their selections? Sure there is a possibility of human error, but do we abolish all our organizations because of a human element. If so, why don't we abolish all the honor groups and on second thought even the entire University."

TERRY BISHOP: "Since so few students exercise their talents and energies toward the good of the University, I feel that those who do, deserve some type of recognition. However, I think that the basis for separating the 'Who's Who' from the 'Who's Not' should be explained more clearly to the general public."

STAN HECKMAN: "A basic problem at this University is the lack of students interested in activities. I think that we would be foolish to eliminate any goal which students work to attain. Every campus can rightly expect to receive recognition for services rendered. Who's Who provides such recognition. On the other hand, a poorly selected honorary group can frustrate enthusiasm. If deserving students are left out of Who's Who and replaced by people less deserving but politically more important, interest is squelched. I think we should maintain Who's Who, but I hope some thought will be given to making selections as equitable as possible. Perhaps the present system is best, but it has aroused unfavorable opinion. An investigation to find a better method can certainly do no harm."

JOHN MCNETT: "No one gives credit to Student Life for the excellent choices that have been made. It's a very difficult job to pick the outstanding members of our campus and, even though a few controversial choices have been made, any thought of abolishing Who's Who is ridiculous. The same problem is present in other schools I'm sure, and it's quite unfair to not represent the University and its outstanding members."

Letter To The Editor

• TO THE EDITORS:

Would it be asking too much to request that we be spared such tripe as has been foisted on us under the guise of sports reporting in the recent issue of the HATCHET? I speak, of course, of the alleged account of the George Washington-Washington and Lee game. Editorials, I had thought, usually carried the warning word "editorial" and do not usually, under our journalistic system, disguise themselves as this editorial was disguised.

Further, if Washington and Lee wishes to return once more to the rather thin ranks of amateur basketball, it is hard to conceive of how this is the business of the HATCHET. If our own team plays badly, well and good; criticism is earned and expected. One can hardly justify criticism of administrative decisions by a rival university, especially when such decisions have no discernable effect on the HATCHET or on George Washington University, other than providing our team with two breathers on an admittedly difficult schedule.

If George Washington wishes to remain in the semi-professional ranks, that is fine, but we would do well not to criticize those who have seen the hypocrisy of American collegiate "amateurism," and have altered their position.

Yours truly,
John R. Schneider

On Campus

by BOB LIPMAN

• THE REACTIONS TO my column printed last week were both surprising and pleasing. Surprising because I did not realize that so many people had no idea of how things are done around campus and pleasing because so many people approached me and told me that they were greatly interested in reading my future columns.

Not that I am greatly surprised, with the sales of Confidential and other "behind the scenes" magazines being so high, but I am hoping the interest was really in student activities and the desire to find a better way to improve these activities.

An activity that has been a dredge on the average student is the cheerleaders. A dredge because they have not performed the service they could and a dredge on the average student because the average student does not try to take advantage of what the cheerleaders have to offer. There has always been a great deal of criticism thrown in the direction of the cheerleaders, and much of it has been worthwhile.

First of all, the cheerleaders put out the barest effort in doing their job. This year, I would say they have put forth a little more effort than usual, but still they are not doing the job they could and should. It is true on most campuses cheerleading is a vital part of campus life. But then again so is the booster section of any big-time college athletic event. Leaving the student portion alone for awhile the cheerleaders don't do anything to make the student body want to participate. There are no stunts at games or bonfires and imaginative rallies to cheer the Buff on to victory.

At the football game the entire cheering squad isn't generally present. This year to add to the eight girls on the squad two males have been chosen. At the beginning of the year the HATCHET and the student body thought it would add a great deal to school spirit if men were selected as cheerleaders. So with all this fuss and pressure the cheerleaders had special tryouts, to which five men attended, and Martin Herman and Bob Greenstein were selected as "yell leaders" (special term applied to male cheerleaders). Roy Dubrow was chosen alternate.

According to the last constitution submitted to the activities office, the cheerleaders are supposed to have two co-captains, a boy and a girl. If this is true then the squad has evidently not been living up to their constitution, because there has not been a boy on the squad in years and I don't think many boys knew about the opening.

But if the boys presently on the squad are typical of other boy yell leaders then I think they should be dropped. When the males assumed their roles they did a good job, but they slacked off at the end of the football season and only the alternate has been to a basketball game. Some action should be taken!

The only cheerleader that does any real work is Dee McDonald. She is always flitting about campus putting up signs, distributing circulars and pressuring people to come to pep rallies. She has come to almost every football game and to all basketball games, which is more than I can say for her sister rah rah girls. There are no stunts performed and usually there are no copies of the cheers passed among the booster section (with the exception of the St. John's game). It's strange to see the cheerleaders yell "up the court, down the court, etc." and wondering why everyone doesn't yell. Who ever heard of these strange chants?

With all their faults the bulk of the trouble lies with the student body. It's heartbreaking for the team to come out on court and see a handful of fans in the booster section and you can't get any cheering with no voices. The lack of interest in our athletic teams is really amazing! We have a tremendous basketball team and yet all the people that came to the game with nationally ranked St. John's was about 2,000. The football season was a complete bust as far as crowds were concerned. It is kind of difficult to institute spirit with no attendance.

At the Washington & Lee game there were a handful of G. W. fans, but the three cheerleaders could hardly get a yell out of them. At the Boston U. game there were about 300 Buff rooters and the cheering sounded pretty good. Maybe it is only at the close exciting games that Colonial adherents cheer.

I could go on and on, but I just hope that the cheerleaders take heed and really come up with some new gimmicks and by all means straighten themselves out internally and by some miracle I hope you students will support the Buff teams and let them know they are playing for something more than a scholarship—an appreciative student body.

"I CAN'T SIGN YOUR PETITION TO DROP MY CLASS—I NEED YOUR 'F' TO EQUALIZE MY GRADE DISTRIBUTION."

Duke Ellington

by Mike Duberstein

IN THE JAZZ world, Louis Armstrong is associated with New Orleans; Kansas City brings memories of Charlie Parker; New York is linked with Count Basie; and Chicago with Eddie Condon. Washington's gift is Duke Ellington.

Edward Kennedy Ellington was born April 29, 1899. Where he was born is greatly disputed, but the fact remains that soon the Ellington family was living in Southeast Washington.

When he was yet very young, Ellington began piano lessons, and so by the time he had graduated from the now-defunct Armstrong High, the Duke was quite a proficient pianist.

Although most of Ellington's training was in the more classical aspects of the piano, the Duke would frequently be found listening to one of the numerous ragtime piano players in his neighborhood. And from the many pianists that he heard, Lucky Roberts stood out to young Ellington. Roberts, a New Yorker, often appeared at the Howard Theater and it was not unusual to find the enhanced teen-ager intently gathering pointers from the orchestra seats.

Much of Ellington's early work was reminiscent of Robert's—one trade mark being very quick hand movements. The flashy hand movements brought attention of Duke to a great number of Washington musicians with the result that when he was only 17, Ellington received his first professional start with the mostly-non-jazz playing society orchestra of Louis Thomas.

Within months, Ellington had broken away from the Thomas organization, along with a number of other Thomas sidemen, and formed his own band. In fact, Duke fronted not only one band; he was the head-man of three different groups.

Duke found the band business to be lucrative and soon gave up his regular job as a painter. And although the Ellington group was young, it rapidly became well known not only in the immediate Washington area but also up the entire Seaboard coast.

In 1922, Ellington and three of his cohorts travelled to New York, hoping for a break. However, the break did not come and the Duke and his followers ended up taking a job in a theater pit orchestra. The theater job lasted only a short time as Ellington was earning better money back in Washington, but what was accomplished was the Duke's learning of styles predominant in the leading Empire City piano players.

Back in Washington again, Duke was organizing his band when Fats Waller passed through the city and enticed Ellington to return to New York.

JAZZ RECORD REVIEW:

The ideal jazz group! Many people would say that a combination of Charlie Parker, Dizzy Gillespie, Charlie Mingus, Bud Powell and Max Roach would be hard to beat. However, in the case of the quintets appearance in Toronto's Massey Hall in 1953 the combination did not jell into a successful date. As heard in the album "Modern Jazz Hall of Fame" (Design DLP 29) Parker's alto at times seems to be coming from the other side of the room, and the rhythm section is all but lost to the loud crowd which is grossly over-recorded.

Students Can Combine Study With Their Summer Travel

POTENTIAL HISTORIANS, SOCIOLOGISTS, poets and other liberal arts students can combine summer study with vacation travel abroad by enrolling in a British or Austrian summer school program. Applications of American students are now being accepted by the Institute of International Education.

The British University summer schools offer six week courses in various subjects. Students at Stratford-on-Avon will study Shakespeare and Elizabethan drama; in London, one can study either Literature, Art and Social Change in 19th Century England or Aspects

LOST WEEK-END, BUT NOT A LOST CAUSE!

I am Finister J. Seboltz, a relative by accident, to your maiden aunt, Hester Heale. Hester went off on some fling this week-end (wonder what it was—she mentioned something about 21) and got mixed up with some young ex-juvenile named Harold and asked me to do the column.

Legal Day was celebrated at the Sigma Chi house Saturday night as Hal Bergem hosted what was previously advertised as a coming out (actually, it was Hal's 21st birthday.) The guests were wide and varied—a sort of non-clandestine affair with Auntie Mame, Alfred E. Newman, Agnes Waters, Daddy Grace, David Ben-Gurion, Grace Metalious, Harry S. Truman, and "Guns for the Arabs" all mixed in. Hal's date, AEPH T. C. Aronoff, presented Hal with a giant mug with the inscription, "I Bet You Can't." The new legal host bet he could, and five minutes and several gasps later, Hal, now on the floor, had defeated Mr. Tom Collins. Seen and heard wishing Happy Birthday greetings were AEPH Stan Heckman and Evie Celler, Sig J. P. Donley and Bee Gee Neil, AEPH Aaron Knott and AEPH Rhoda Eerin, Sig Bill Ellis and Theta Ann Kellogg, Sig John Drew and wife Donna, Sig Tommy Darnes and Judie Twitchell, Sig Lin DeVecchio and Margie Aho, Al Justice and ZTA Sue Kadel, Sig Tom Varley and Kappa Marby Adams, Wally Sherertz and Ann Keeton, SAE Jett McNett and Gail Rogers, Sig Bob Sneed and Sweetheart Jan Baldaut, Theta, Tom Berdeen and Kay Buchanan, Sig Charlie McSwain and wife Mary, Hank Burchard and Doty Williams, KA Alex Heslin and DG Jo Toland, Stella Fridgen, Stew Russell, AEPH Mel Feldman and Lynn Robinson, AEPH Roy DuBrow and AEPH Jan Glnberg, Sig Frexy Bill Fearer and Julie Smith, Sig Larry Carone and Kappa Eletheer Warfield, Bob Sutton and Judy Crown, Delt Tim Mead and Kappa Ann Marie Sneringer, Sig Denis Jacques and Barbara Davis, Bill Brenner and Kappa Carolyn McKnight, Lee Munroe and Robbie Andrau, AEPH Irv Hecker and Shelly Stein, AEPH David Aaronson and Susan Sherman, G. M. Sullivan, Martha Washington, Delt Pete Dyer and Anne Bittner, AEPH Marty Reichgut and AEPH Sherri Rabinowitz, Delt Jim Jennings and Anne Massey, AEPH Burt Kaplan and AEPH Nancy Ackerman, AEPH Marty Herman and Sidney Epstein, AEPH Saul Leibowitz and AEPH Joanie Goldstein, several interesting couples—Howie Lehrer and John Brown, Al Ezrin and Steve Newman, Mike Duberstein and Freddy Grant—all AEPH pledges, George Reinforth V, Al Effrat, Sig Chuck Harkleroad and Nancy Cooper, Bill Carter and Dottie Calber, Sig Frank Bernhelsel and Theta Lee Rocca, Pike Al Snyder and Nancy Wright, and Net Weld (in absentia). It WAS a real coming out, but actually it was more like an explosion—but that could have been because Hal still had fond memories of meeting Zsa Zsa Gabor just a few days earlier. Honest!

Friday night, seven of our young, naive, and inexperienced drinking clubs got together at the Sig House for a giant exchange, although just what was exchanged is still some sort of a mystery. Congregated were the pledge classes of KKG, DG, Theta, Chi O, Delt, Sig, and SAE. Joy was overflowing—upstairs, downstairs, and in the ladies' room—but then, what the h—, this was the last week before finals. Good preparation, you know. Spotted here and there were Al Baker, who made his debut, Tom Wagner, reclining on a couch, Sallie Herrington, not giving a darn, and several pledges from all seven brother- and sisterhoods, acting as nursemaids.

Saturday night at the SAE House was the scene of a small post—St. John's defeat (but a great ball game) party. The evening was highlighted and sparked by a vigorous game of Indian signs and rhythms with all the participants using the game as an instrument to drown their troubles; take it from an innocent bystander, the drowning in most instances was complete and left nothing to the imagination. At any rate the game maintained consistency with everyone advocating dissipation. Leading the contingency downstairs was the highly-original and bellowing Bob Price (whose originality in the rhythms game obviously from his days as a member of the US Navy) and new pinmate DG Margo Herr. (Congrats, here!) Ronnie Miller and friend from Sweetbriar college, Bob Madigan and DG Lani Derickson, and Ace Miller and Bill Blocher. One of the most interesting revelations of the night was a series of "pin-nings" which came about all of a sudden. It all began when Pete Spear and Jane Hildegeld decided to take the big plunge. Soon to follow were Craig Fox and Pi Phi Marty Mueller, Tony Dold and DG Judy Crumlish, and then Kitty Hyland, as usual, showed up with two pins.

Although the St. John's defeat was a heartbreaker, Phi Sigma Kappa received one consolation as a result of it—"Whispers" Ross finally lost his voice. The Sigs have a new Moonlight Girl, who was crowned at the Christmas Formal. She is Ginger Thomas, the vivacious red-head from Chi O. Among the happy celebrants were Lou Van Blois (happiest of them all), Hain Swope and Jeri Charlie Mays and Ann, Don Pavony and Pi Phi Pepita Lassalle, Rick Orlando and Bynny, Terry Hall and DZ Marcia Mann, John Arguilles and Sherry, Joe Spitzer and Theta Sally Herrington, Monte Whitem and ADPi Joan Howarth, John Lintner and ZTA Bobbie Pompillio, Pete Harde and his pinmate Grace Warder, Dan Kosek and wife, Charlie King and the "pretzel tree," and the intoxicating quartet of Rowland Croft, Bart Crivella, Ben Dyess, and Bob Figley.

Word has leaked out about a simply fabulous party which featured a live parrot, Spanish food with gentle peppers, homemade music, and too many people to count. The scene of the crime was Gracie Latham's house, the time—last Friday. Present en masse were Sigma Kappas and Tekes, dorm inhabitants who sauntered in and stayed, and about half of the U. S. Army. Having a wonderful time stag were Lep and Lou; Sandy Ford and Dartmouth SFE Don Swift were in rare form, as were Gretchen von Rosenberg and George Ramirez.

After enjoying a tremendous joust at Uline, the Sigma Nus and their dates retreated to the "Snake Pit" and had a pre-final blast. Regurgitating some of the highlights were Chuck Stirling and Vera Wunsch, Ken Callaway and Bev McGee, Steve Kemp and Linda Shapiro, Max and Mary McFadden, and Bill Pritchard and Sandy Robertson. Also contributing wits of wisdom was a bearded gent—Frater Jack, with a beret, shades, and Bunny Johanssen. Other notables seen at the blast were Raunch Horney, Chris Douty, Carl Prout, and Pete Glover.

"Pre-Exam Blues" was the theme of a coffee hour that Delta Zeta had with Sigma Nu. The enthusiastic singing of Dick Willis, Steve Kemp, Karen Jamison, Lyndall Johns, Martie Mitchell, and Dale Hudelson, among others, gave the DZ rooms a rousing, spirited atmosphere which was anything but "blue." The ice cold good time had by all.

Of course, we have our usual pre-exam romances—out of desperation, maybe? They include the recent announcement of an earlier wedding of Pike Ed Creei and Perry (can't think of the maiden name—but does it matter, now?) Congrats, but out of speculation—and believe me, I'm quoting—"But Ed's been living in the Pike house!"

Also—Happy Landing to Chi O Bobbie Wash, who married Lt. Owen C. Baker, Navy grad, 1957, at Annapolis Dec. 20. He's a marine flyer stationed at Pensacola, Fla., while Bobbie (poor lass) still has final exams.

More affairs (engagements) next week. But—even more engaging are the other affairs coming up next week—FINALS! BYE!!

IS STUDYING NECESSARY?

Once there were three roommates and their names were Walter Pellucid, Casimir Fing, and LeRoy Holocaust and they were all taking English lit. They were all happy, friendly, outgoing types and they all smoked Philip Morris Cigarettes as you would expect from such a gregarious trio, for Philip Morris is the very essence of sociability, the very spirit of amity, the very soul of concord, with its tobacco so mild and true, its packs so soft and flip-top, its length so regular or long size. You will find when you smoke Philip Morris that the birds sing for you and no man's hand is raised against you.

Each night after dinner Walter and Casimir and LeRoy went to their room and studied English lit. For three hours they sat in sombre silence and pored over their books and then, squinty and spent, they toppled onto their pallets and sobbed themselves to sleep.

This joyless situation obtained all through September and October. Then one November night they were all simultaneously struck by a marvelous idea. "We are all studying the same thing," they cried. "Why, then, should each of us study for three hours? Why not each study for one hour? It is true we will only learn one-third as much that way, but it does not matter because there are three of us and next January before the exams, we can get together and pool our knowledge!"

Oh, what rapture then fell on Walter and Casimir and LeRoy! They flung their beanies into the air and danced a schottische and lit thirty or forty Philip Morris and ran out to pursue the pleasure which had so long, so bitterly, been missing from their lives.

Alas, they found instead a series of grisly misfortunes. Walter, alas, went searching for love and was soon going steady with a coed named Invicta Breadstuff, a handsome lass, but, alas, hopelessly addicted to bowling. Each night she bowled five hundred lines, some nights a thousand. Poor Walter's thumb was a shambles and his purse was empty, but Invicta just kept on bowling and in the end, alas, she left Walter for a pin-setter, which was a terrible thing to do to Walter, especially in this case, because the pin-setter was automatic.

Walter, of course, was far too distraught to study his English lit, but he took some comfort from the fact that his roommates were studying and they would help him before the exams. But Walter, alas, was wrong. His roommates, Casimir and LeRoy, were nature lovers and they used their free time to go for long tramps in the woods. One November night, alas, they were treed by two bears, Casimir by a brown bear and LeRoy by a Kodiak, and they were kept in the trees until mid-January when winter set in and the brown bear and the Kodiak went away to hibernate.

So when the three roommates met before exams to pool their knowledge, they found they had none to pool! Well sir, they had a good long laugh about that and then rushed to the kitchen and stuck their heads in the oven. It was, however, an electric oven and the effects were, on the whole, beneficial. The wax in their ears got melted and they acquired a healthy tan and today they are married to a lovely young heiress named Ganglia Bran and live in the Canal Zone, where there are many nice boats to wave at.

Colclough Expresses Optimism for G. W.

By Don Welley

• THE UNIVERSITY WILL soon have as its Acting President, Dean Colclough, Rear Admiral, Retired, U. S. Navy, former Commander of the Battleship North Carolina. In a recent interview, this reporter obtained the views and concepts of Admiral Colclough on moving from a high command situation in the Navy into the totally different environment of a growing university in the nation's center of government.

During the interview the Admiral freely discussed the duties and responsibilities of the position of Acting President, which he will assume on January 28, 1959. He said he has been asked many times by associates in the Navy the differences between administration in a military situation and in a university. The Admiral said that he considers the major difference is that in the military final authority for decisions rests with the commander, whereas in a university there appears to be no final authority point. Major decisions are made more by group or concerted action than by one man. This group action, however, does not, in the Admiral's opinion, result in getting things accomplished in serious problems. He pointed out that in the military that if every man does his job properly, few decisions have to be made by the commander and those are the really important ones. He says he believes that the same system applies in the university.

The Admiral made particular mention of his earnest desire to continue President Marvin's plans for making the university play a greater role as a non-sectarian school with national interests. He said that the university is not only interested in developing the law center and field house, but also in the Medical school, expansion of classroom facilities, and all other well known plans for improvement. Towards these ends, the university is moving on a legal basis, within the law, to obtain the area needed for expansion. In view of this approach, he does not feel that the various protesting groups have any valid grounds for feeling that their rights as property holders are being violated. The expansion program will require, according to the Admiral, greatly increased funds. He said that all the members of the University family were cooperating in broadening the base of endowments.

As an independent university, he feels that we have a great opportunity to contribute to improvements in America's higher education.

When asked about his views on tightening university entrance requirements, the Admiral said that in the fall of 1959, for the first time in the University's history, College Board Examinations will be used as part of the entrance requirements. Further steps in this direction will be determined by the results of these exams.

In recalling his student days at the university, Dean Colclough said that he was impressed with the versatility, maturity and seriousness of his fellow students. He remarked that this feeling is still present in his mind today and was graphically shown in the results of the Christmas toy drive for orphan children. He stated that several of his former teachers were still at the university and that their teaching ability, interest and friendliness that he so well remembers is characteristic of today's faculty.

The Admiral feels that the students of the university should ever keep aware of the great advantage they have in attending college in the nation's capital. There is no other city in the world, according to the Admiral, which has such an intellectual atmosphere.

Dean Colclough stated the University should "move forward on all fronts to meet challenges and opportunities with which it is confronted." He said there are only two directions for a university to move in—forward or backward.

city will be considered. However, those studying "Aspects of English Law and Jurisprudence" must either hold a law degree or be enrolled in a law school. Twelve to twenty nationalities are usually represented in each course.

The summer school fees, including full board, residence and tuition, range between L80-L84 (approximately $226-238). A few scholarships are available which partially cover university fees of well-qualified students.

In Austria there are two summer schools of interest to Americans. The University of Vienna will give courses at its St. Wolfgang Campus near Salzburg. Students can study international relations, European economic and social problems, European history, music, art, psychology and German language. All courses, except German language, are taught in English. Students who have completed at least two years of college work are eligible to apply for either a three- or six-week program. The cost of the six week program, including registration, tuition, maintenance, tours and attendance at the Salzburg Festival is $220. A few scholarships are open to six week students, covering tuition and maintenance.

The Salzburg summer school, sponsored by the Austro-American society, offers a six-week summer program at Salzburg.

Applications for both the British and the Austrian programs may be obtained from the Institute of International Education, 1 East 67th St., New York 21, N. Y. British summer school scholarship applications must be received before March 2, admission applications for Austrian schools must be returned by March 1, and admission applications by June 1.

students in the annual Who's Who.

COOKIE FISCHGRUND: "Who's Who could be a valuable organization if the number of students selected were cut down to those who have really made a contribution to student life at G. W. and therefore deserve the honor. Having a Who's Who adds some prestige to our school but unless its members are selected with more discretion it will lose all its effect."

DICK WILLS: "I'm surprised that this ridiculous controversy started in the first place. I can see no reason for discontinuing what could be one of our finest honoraries. Certainly controversy will arise from any human decision, but we should not be so foolish as to let a few dissatisfied individuals ruin a worthwhile organization. The Student Council took the proper step in recommending that the Student Life committee not discontinue Who's Who."

ARON KNOTT: "Who's Who is basically a good idea, and the controversy which has surrounded this year's selections should not stampede the administration and Student Life committee into rashly abolishing this national honorarium from our campus. Who's Who can fulfill its purpose of honoring those student leaders who have for four years devoted their efforts toward making G. W. a better school. If unfortunate selections are made, it is time to look at the method of selection, and not the time to abolish the whole organization. Perhaps the Student Council, as representing the students, could look into the ways other schools select members to Who's Who and recommend changes that would make our chapter fulfill its purpose more effectively. It would be unfortunate if the Student Life committee were so weak and uncertain of itself that it would abolish every controversial matter that came before it. One wonders how many student organizations would be left on the campus if past Student Life committees had this attitude."

The Feldman Twins—Buff's Little Boppers

By Roger Stuart

• JEFF IS THE exact duplicate of Jon, or maybe it's the other way around. Anyway the identical Feldman twins are the joint back court agents on the Colonials' freshman basketball squad.

The two boys actually go by the nickname the Little Boppers because their teammates and friends at the University cannot tell them apart.

There is a reason for this nickname, and wouldn't you know it, part of that reason is another player on the G.W. team who hails from the same hometown and high school.

When the boys came to the University last September, a song called "Chantilly Lace" was very popular. A character in the song is called Big Bopper. That's the name given to the twin's friends, Ralph Kunze, by his teammates.

'Boppers'

Since everybody had more than a little degree of difficulty in telling the look-alikes apart, friend Ralph began to call his hometown buddies the Little Boppers and the name has stuck.

Actually the counter-parts do have differences, but a person wouldn't be able to tell you what they are, unless he was at close range or if he already knew the boys. It seems that Jon got the jump on his, what shall we say, kid brother, by some 15 minutes at birth.

Now Jeff has his brother beaten by half an inch and about five pounds. Jeff is 5'9½" and 145 pounds while brother Jon stands 5'9" and fills it with 140 pounds.

Aside from that, there is another little difference, and that too has to be pointed out. There is a little mole just over Jon's, or maybe it's Jeff's lip. Oh, Well! There's a difference there anyway.

Basketball Stars

The two boys who are almost never seen apart came to G.W. for that reason. In high school the pair played their basketball at Newark, New Jersey's West Side. In their senior year, West Side tied as co-champs of Newark and were runner-ups in the state finals. Both boys made the All-City team in Newark for their stellar work with the basketball. Both play the guard position.

When offers came their way for scholarships, the brothers found that plenty of schools would take them separately, but not together. Then along came the opportunity from George Washington, their high school coach's alma mater. The boys jumped at the offer and here they are at G.W. today.

As twins they are often being looked at by passers-by on the street. One day not long ago, the two were walking down the street when an elderly lady was seen approaching them from the other direction. When she got up to them, she stopped and said in a delighted voice, "Twins! Oh, God bless you!" then she turned away and went on up the street leaving them somewhat agast.

Impersonation

Actually Jeff and Jon have been in more than one position where they've tried to pass for the other. No more logical place could have been but on the basketball court. In high school when the foul situation for one of the boys would be called on him which would become acute, and another might mean his getting benched, the other brother would raise his hand for the scorer to count one on him via his number and not the boy.

Sometimes it worked they said, but one instance where it didn't was in that state play-off game last year. One of them got benched when the officials caught his brother trying to take credit for the other's foul.

The doubles seem to have a great many of the same traits like many other identical twins. An example is how well they made out in high school. For two years, they were in the same class, and both always got identical marks. Their teachers began to think that this was a little more than coincidental so the next year they separated the pair . . . one of the few times. And what happened? They came up with the identical marks again.

Scholastics

Here at the University for their first semester, the 18 year olds who celebrate their birthday on November 21, have both racked up about a 2.5 average on their mid-terms.

The boys seem to have little free time or so it seemed in trying to arrange for this interview. After three weeks it was finally arranged for, in Welling hall. And there, in a room filled with a number of their joking buddies at Welling, the interview was conducted.

One of their cohorts is Bill Flynn, nicknamed Moon. While the twins were trying to answer questions, their buddies were in a constant mood for a bit of heckling. A great deal was coming from Moon reclined in the upper berth of his bunk bed.

Heckling

After one of Moon's attempts to playfully ridicule his friends, Jon came out with this gem. "Oh, Moon! You know," he told me, "this Moon thinks he's a satellite or something. You know Moon, the way you play that radio of yours all night long, I sure as heck would never orbit you. You'd send too much information back to earth that I don't want heard."

Oh yes, as an afterthought the boys related that they never wear the same clothes anymore, but somehow it doesn't seem to mean much when it comes to telling the difference between the two.

So far this year, the brothers have played in four freshman team games. The squad has a record of 2 wins and 2 losses, but these boys have dumped in their share of points. In each contest both of them scored in the vicinity of 20 points with Jeff taking the slight edge in three of them. In the other one they came up with, you guessed it, identical scores.

Scorers

In high school they say it was a little different. Jon usually had the slight edge. This year, according to Jeff, with Jon backing him up, "I promised him it would be different." So far it is. Not many colleges boast twins for their freshman teams and if they make the varsity next season, they'll probably be more unique.

If their present performances are any indication, they'll probably make it. If so G.W. can undoubtedly use the twins uncanny ability to know where the other one is on the floor without even looking. That's right, or at least, that's what they claim.

As far as their scoring is concerned, Jon tallies mostly with his favorite jump shots from the outside, while Jeff comes through with deadly set shots from their back court position. Both of them are able shooters with both hands.

Maybe next year, Colonial fans will be seeing more of these fellows. Let's hope that they have as much success in telling them apart as that official did in their championship game back in high school.

By the way, Coach Rhinehart, as a word of caution, I've heard that they've just about driven their coaches nuts in the past because of their twin identities. Maybe you'll have better luck than others have had.

VPI Wins 86-81; Fouls Hurt Colonials

by Stan Heckman

• THE COLONIAL CAGEMEN lost a crucial Southern Conference contest last Tuesday as they fell to defeat before the Gobblers of V.P.I. 86-81 in Blacksburg, Va.

The Gobblers sensational sophomore, 5 foot 4 Bob Ayersman was the key figure in the V.P.I. victory. Dropping in 34 points to add to his already impressive 25.3 average Ayersman, who averaged 20.7 points as a freshman last year, is once again sparking the young V.P.I. team and seems to be leading it to a very fine season.

The Colonials had their problems, and fouls proved to be a major one. The foul line meant defeat to the G. W. five, who out scored V.P.I. from the floor 32-28. The Buff offered their opponents 41 free tries and the Gobblers capitalized on the situation to the tune of 30 points.

Buff Lose Lead

Before the foul frenzy set in, the Colonials were never behind. At the intermission the Buff led 38-35. But the slim halftime advantage was short lived. A jump shot early in the second half by Dean Balke gave V.P.I. a 49-47 lead and the Colonials never quite caught up. The loss of Howie Bash on fouls after two minutes of the second half and the danger of more disqualifications inhibited the Colonial defenses and gave the Gobblers the opportunity they used so well.

Prior to the game the Colonials were regarded as the major obstacle to Gobbler chances for an undefeated season in the conference. V.P.I. does not meet the West Virginia five during the regular season, and with the victory over G. W., the Gobblers' conference record stands at 3-0.

Conference Record

In losing to V.P.I., the Buff dropped their conference record below the .500 mark. An opening game loss to William & Mary and a win over Richmond account for the only other league games and give the Colonials a 1-2 conference record.

The G. W. squad will have a chance to avenge the 86-61 defeat on February 16 when the Gobblers make their appearance at Uline Arena.

last year's national champs. West Virginia led by Jerry West, will come to Uline Arena on Monday, January 26 to attempt to control the Colonials, bid for honors in the conference. With a 9-3 record to date the Mountaineer five has crushed five consecutive Southern Conference teams. In the University of Kentucky Invitational Tournament, West Virginia finished second in competition with Ohio State, Kentucky, and Oklahoma State. Definitely this is the team to beat.

On February 3 and February 7 the Buff oppose the Wake Forest Deacons and the William and Mary Indians with 5-7 and 9-3 records respectively. The disappointing Deacons with stars Olin Broadway, Dave Budd, and George Ritchie have fared very poorly against powerful opposition like Cincinnati, Louisville, Yale, Clemson, Duke, and North Carolina. In the North Carolina game, they slowed down the game to a snail's pace but still bowed 44-33. The Buff will most certainly be out for the scalps of the W&M Indians after dropping their opener 57-52 in the Indians' own hunting grounds. But it will be very difficult to burn a tribe of such power at the stake even if the murder is attempted at the Fort Myer Army Post.

Three Teams Dominate

To the present time the basketball activity in the Southern Conference has been dominated by three teams, West Virginia, Virginia Tech, and William and Mary. However the season is yet quite youthful and there will be many changes before the Conference Tourney at the end of February. Presently it does not appear that G. W. will have much opportunity to pull the championship out of the hat, but with a little luck against the leading teams the possibility of a basketball crown coming to our ivy-covered walls still remains a possibility.

Buff Beat Boston; Lose To St. John's

Redmen Win 86-85; Fouls Hurt Colonials

• A FIGHTING COLONIAL five were edged out in the last few minutes of Saturday's thriller by the Redmen of St. Johns, 86-85.

Tempers and tension rose as the nip and tuck battle drew to a finish. In the heat of battle G.W.'s Bucky McDonald and Redman Alan Seiden almost came to blows and had to be held apart by teammates.

Fouls were an important factor in the final minutes of the game when everyone was on edge. Of the last 16 points scored 12 were made at the free throw line. The Redmen made six of their last eight points at the foul line, and Seiden's final two free throws proved the winning margin.

With five minutes remaining, G.W. owned a 75-72 lead, but Redman center Louis Roethal made it 75-74 with two foul shots. On the next play John Ryan fouled G.W.'s Gene Guarilla who calmly tossed in two points to give the Buff a 77-74 lead.

St. John's Pull Ahead

Tony Jackson, St. John's star forward, sank a bucket to pull the Redmen up, and Roethal sank a basket to put the Redmen ahead 78-77. St. John's tried to hold on to the ball, but in the effort Roethal fouled Bill Telasky. Telasky sank both shots to put G.W. back in the lead.

St. Johns again got the ball, and Al Seiden tried to get under the basket for a lay up. Guarilla tried to protect the Colonial lead but was called for blocking. Once again the action stopped and attention was shifted to the free throw line. Seiden proved his mettle as he sank two shots amid the cacophony made by G. W. fans. St. Johns took over the lead 80-79.

McDonald Scores

G.W. brought the ball down court where Bucky McDonald was fouled and got a chance at the charity line. As time was running out, Bucky sank both shots and put the Colonials ahead by one point.

With less than a minute remaining Jackson was fouled and stepped up to the line with the fate of the game on his shoulders. Jackson made the two points, and St. Johns was again in the lead by one point.

Again G.W. brought the ball down court, but time and Redmen defense really put the pressure on. Finally with only 35 seconds left Telasky shot from the corner, but the ball bounced from the rim into the arms of the Redmen; the game was as good as over.

Buff Try for Ball

The Buff called time out and decided the only way to get the ball was to chance a deliberate foul. Even this strategy, though it worked, was not enough to win the game for the Buff. Seiden sank two foul shots to give St. John's a three point lead. G.W. had just enough time to score a final basket before the whistle blew.

The Colonials played heads up hustling ball throughout the game, but two things did hurt; the first five minutes of the game, and Howie Bash fouling out after eight minutes in the second half.

Redmen Take Lead

In the first five minutes of play the Redmen were able to take an eleven point lead of 16-5. It took G.W. the next 10 minutes to make up this deficit. When Bash fouled out the Buff lost one of its best defensive men. Bash had been covering Jackson, and doing a good job of it. Jackson scored six points in the last two minutes of the game to aid the Redmen cause.

High scorer for the Colonials was Gene Guarilla with 28. Big Gene scored 16 points in the first half, and 12 in the second on a total of eight field goals and 12 free throws.

Lapchick Praises Colonial Cagers

by Stan Heckman

• COACH JOE LAPCHICK, thirteen year veteran of St. John's University, is a man who believes in giving credit when and where it is due.

In an exclusive interview with the Hatchet before Saturday night's contest which ended in an 86-85 victory for St. John's, Coach Lapchick praised the Colonial hoopers in glowing terms. "I'm going into this game with a good deal of apprehension. From all I have seen and heard, Coach Bill Reinhart has a vastly improved team." Joe went on to say, "G.W.'s backcourt boy wonders, Bill Telasky and Bucky McDonald, impress me very much with their ability. And since the first time I saw Gene Guarilla last year, I have considered him tops. His driving and shooting are of the highest quality. All in all, the '38 version of the Colonials is one of the finest teams ever to come out of the school."

Knows Basketball

Joe Lapchick, in his 22 years of coaching has never been famous for lavish praises or glittering generalities. He is a man who knows basketball and speaks about it seriously.

Coach Lapchick started his career playing for America's first great basketball team, the Original Celtics. In 1937 he resigned from the player ranks to take over the coaching job at St. John's where he succeeded in making his team a great basketball power in the East. He stayed with the Redmen for 11 years before becoming head coach of the New York Knickerbockers. While with the Knicks, he commanded such greats as Carl Bruan, Vinnie Bory, Ernie Vanderveigh, and Dick and Al McGuire. He developed Harry Gallatin and Sweetwater Clifton into two of the game's outstanding stars. Two years ago Lapchick resigned from the Knicks and returned to his great love, St. John's.

High Pressure Type

Most basketball fans who have seen the coach in action consider him the "high blood pressure type." His vehement arguments with officials have made him famous as the Leo Durocher of the baseball world. But off the court Lapchick is a mild-mannered, thoughtful man. Sitting in his Dupont Plaza suite talking to this soft-spoken man, one would find it hard to believe that this is the same Joe Lapchick who squirms on the bench and fights for every point.

Lapchick spoke freely on a variety of basketball subjects. Asked for his opinion on incorporating the 24-second rule into college basketball, he said, "As a lover of the game, I am in favor of having some time limit. Perhaps 30 seconds as used in international competition would be good for college teams. But as coach of St. John's, a ball-handling team, I would be against such a rule. However, when the time comes, and some day it will, I will accept the change as good for the game."

Compares College and Pro

In comparing professional with collegiate basketball, the coach said, "There is really little difference between the two. The quality of players in pro ball is of course better, but the spirit of the game and the will to win is the same. I have found, as a coach, that college players are somewhat harder to handle than the more mature pro variety. Their feelings are more easily hurt, and each boy must be handled with great care."

Lapchick could not say enough about the importance of the sport. "Basketball teaches young men things they can never get out of text books. Spirit, enthusiasm, drive, and cooperation are vital lessons which the game teaches."

Redmen Ranked

Lapchick was pleased with his team's performance this year. The Redmen are ranked No. 10 in the nation. They have a 10-1 record (including the victory over G.W.), the single loss coming at the hands of Bradley. St. John's won the Eastern Collegiate Athletic

Buff Five End Boston Streak

• GEORGE WASHINGTON'S Fighting five put the brakes on Boston U.'s six game winning streak by defeating the Terriers 78-69 at Uline Arena on Friday.

After the first two minutes of the game, the Colonials were never headed. Gene Guarilla tied the score at 9-9 by dropping in a foul and the Colonials began piling up points. The half ended with G. W. ahead 41-30.

The Terriers, who had previously enjoyed an undefeated season, quickly found the Buff a rival to be reckoned with. After ten minutes of play the Colonials had moved ahead by 13 points. The Boston cagers appeared confused by the rapid G. W. onslaught. Four times in the opening period the anxious Terriers were called for traveling and an equal number of times the Terrier attacks were ended as the snappy Buff defense wrangled the ball away.

Telasky Hot

The 1500 fans were treated to a scoring exhibition by Buff guard Bill Telasky as the second half got under way. Telasky drove his way in to score 11 out of the first 13 points scored by the Colonials in the post-intermission period. He ended up high scorer for the night with 25 points.

Telasky's inspired play pushed the Buff lead to 15 points at one point in the second half. But the Terrier threat was ever present. Trailing 63-48, the Boston cagers showed their scoring powers in a rally which netted them ten points to two for the Buff. The Colonial lead was cut to five points, 67-62, with five minutes remaining.

High Scorers

The Terrier offense was sparked throughout by Ed Washington and Bob Cummings. Washington, a 6-7 sophomore, was high scorer for the Boston five with 18 points.

Cummings was a close second with 17.

In the closing minutes of the game, the Terriers stepped up the attack and came within three points of the Buff. But the Colonials, undisturbed by a full-court press, came through to improve their margin and defeat B. U. 78-69.

Fouls once again caused the Colonials trouble. After six minutes of the first half Gene Guarilla was out of the game with five violations. Jim Walters, Bill Ingram, and Ralph Kunze were used to take over for the bench-ridden center.

G. W. To Play Spiders, W. Va., VMI, Hoyas

by Joe Iseman

• THE COLONIAL CAGERS will battle two of the leading teams in the Southern Conference among the six teams they face in the next few weeks while the rest of the student body is struggling with final exams. Of course West Virginia, ranked eleventh in the nation is the real team to beat. However, all the others, Richmond, VMI, Georgetown, Wake Forest, and William & Mary have had spurts of glory this year and are definitely no pushovers.

Tonight our courtmen travel a hundred miles deeper into Dixie to try to crush the Richmond Spiders again, this time on their home court. When Butch Lambotte, Theryl Willis and company challenged the Buff at Uline Arena in mid-December, they were squashed deplorably 91-67. Overall they have compiled a 6-6 record, but their lone conference victory came at the expense of the Citadel. Inspired by playing before their own fans and trying to retaliate for their shameful display to a powerful G. W. squad, the Spiders will probably put up a much stronger fight this time.

VMI Winless

Winless in the Southern Conference so far this year, but 3-4 for all games, VMI will be G. W.'s guest at Ft. Myer this Thursday. Coming out on the short end of a 82-39 score to Richmond a few weeks ago, these future military leaders varied the fact that they had won only one of thirteen conference games last year. A very poor contest will result if the team plays as it did against Richmond.

When the Georgetown Hoyas come across town to oppose the Buff and Blue Saturday, another fiery brand of basketball will set the freezing floor of the Uline Arena ablaze. After evening their record at 5-5 by blasting out a victory over Boston College 73-67 last Saturday and probably playing a hard game against Maryland tomorrow, the Hoyas will be riled up to revenge their previous 82-75 loss to the Buff. Led by Puddy Sheehan who is averaging well over 20 points per game, Coach Tommy Nolan's team will really be up for this game.

West Virginia
